

1 Regulations

General rules and regulations LAN-party “Over LAN-thousand”

1. General

1.1 Hereafter, “the organisation committee” will refer to the organisation committee of the LAN-party “Over LAN-thousand”. “The LAN event” will hereafter refer to the LAN-party “Over LAN-thousand” held from November 8 to 10, 2013.

1.2 The organisation committee reserves its exclusive right to deny without explanation any person access to the LAN event or to revoke said access.

1.3 The organisation committee reserves its exclusive right to modify without explanation the foregoing and hereafter mentioned rules.

1.4 In the event that situations not covered by the rules mentioned in this document occur during the event, the organisation committee reserves its exclusive right to make autonomous decisions, agreed to by the undersigned.

1.5 Smoking is prohibited in the location of the LAN event.

1.6 At the start of the LAN-event, each attendee is required to hand over a signed copy of these regulations to the organisation committee.

2. Software and Hardware

2.1 Attendees require explicit permission from the organisation committee when taking unusually large or extra equipment (including but not limited to television screens, servers and game consoles).

2.1a Attendees in doubt about rule 2.1 are suggested to contact the organisation committee about the matter at hand.

2.2 The organisation committee cannot be held liable if (personal) belongings of any attendee are stolen.

2.3 The organisation committee cannot be held liable if (personal) belongings of any attendee go missing.

2.4 The organisation committee cannot be held liable for damage to any (personal) belonging of any attendee.

2.5 The attendees responsible for damage, or damage by theft, to anyones personal belongings, Covers properties, properties of the organisation committee, or University property, will be billed for the damage caused.

2.6 In case of theft, damage, or loss of personal belongings, Covers properties, organisation committee property, or University property, we will inform the police.

2.7 We do not condone Illegal software. If illegal software is stored on any of your devices, you alone will be held responsible for the possible repercussions. This rule applies to all files on all devices present at the LAN event.

2.7a Such files may include (but are not limited to) images, video files, audio files or executables.

2.8 The organisation committee cannot be held responsible for any data on any storage medium.

2.9 It is strictly prohibited to incapacitate or sabotage equipment, facilities and services installed by the organisation committee both on-site and off-site. Attendees who violate this rule will be held liable for the damage caused.

2.9a Organisation committee equipment includes but is not limited to: network switches, backbones, internet gateways, storage servers and game servers.

2.9b Services installed by the organisation committee include but are not limited to: the registration website and/or the matchmaking website.

2.9c Means of sabotage and incapacitation may include (but are not limited to) a denial-of-service attack on equipment, unplugging critical wires, spreading a virus, or a brute-force attack on the sites login form.

2.10 It is strictly prohibited to incapacitate or sabotage equipment of other attendees by means of damage done to either hardware or software. For some examples, see 2.9c. Attendees who violate this rule will be held liable for the damage caused.

2.11 It is strictly prohibited to use the network and internet connection made available by the organisation committee for illegal activities. Attendees who violate this rule may be held liable for the resulting fines and damages.

2.11a Traffic is logged and filtered. The logs are always accurate. 2.11b Attendees caught torrenting are pitted against other violators in a small lecture room with blunt objects and kitchen utensils. Last man standing will be sent home.

2.12 It is strictly prohibited to use the internet connection made available by the organisation committee for filesharing protocols due to bandwidth considerations and legal issues. Popular file-sharing protocols include but are not limited to the BitTorrent protocol or the Usenet protocol.

2.13 It is strictly prohibited to move or modify equipment and facilities installed by the organisation committee. You may however plug and unplug your own wires from the outlets and sockets you were assigned to.

2.14 It is strictly prohibited to bring along (computer) speakers to the LAN event or otherwise contribute to ambient noise with amplified sound. Headphones, earplugs and related devices are allowed.

2.14a Speakers built into computers, monitors, laptops, and other devices are allowed but are to be kept muted.

2.15 If the organisation committee is to receive complaints about excessive noise levels, the owner of the source of the excessive noise levels will be held responsible. Audio equipment may be confiscated and will be returned near the end of the LAN event. Emphasising 2.4: we cannot be held responsible for any damage caused to the confiscated equipment.

2.16 It is strictly prohibited to connect anything other than computers, monitors, phone chargers, and the occasional light source to the power grid, due to the capacity of the power grid.

2.17 If a power outage is caused by violation of rule 2.16, the owner of the violating appliance will be held responsible.

2.18 The organisation committee cannot be held liable for loss of data. Attendees are advised to make backups.

2.19 The organisation committee does not guarantee an uninterrupted and/or safe supply of power.

2.20 The organisation committee cannot be held responsible for damage caused by loss of power, lightning strikes, or raging demigods.

3. Alcohol/Drugs

3.1 Attendees of the LAN event are prohibited to possess and/or consume any type of recreational drugs at the LAN event.

3.2 Alcohol consumption is allowed in moderation. In the event of excessive alcohol consumption we reserve the exclusive right to remove any individuals who violate the foregoing rule. The organisation committee will determine the moderateness of the alcohol consumption on a case-by-case basis.

3.3 In the event of drug-consumption as prohibited in 3.1, we will notify the police.

4. Miscellaneous

4.1 The display and/or exchange of material that depicts erotic behaviour is prohibited.

4.2 It is prohibited to bring along ones own beverages to the LAN event.

4.3 It is allowed to bring along ones own food to the LAN event.

4.4 The consumption of food and/or beverages provided by the Foetsie is allowed but needs (as is custom) to be registered with the means available.

4.5 The distribution of copyrighted material is prohibited, unless the materials licence allows the work(s) to be shared and re-used.

4.6 It is allowed to bring along ones own chair but within reason.

4.7 It is prohibited to bring along ones pillows, blankets, or anything of that nature to sleep on or under at the LAN event.

5. Financial

5.1 Fees and costs stated on the website may be subject to errors.

5.1a It is up to the organisation committee to determine if fees and costs are in error.

5.2 Admission fees are as stated by the Organisation Committee on the LanCie webpage, with respect to 5.1.

5.3 Payment of admission fee is fulfilled by attendee after the LAN event.

5.4 Fees for drinks and consumptions are not included in the admission fee.

5.5 Fees for the dinner served by the organisation committee on the first and second day of the LAN event are included in the admission fee.

5.6 All payments are conducted by means of direct debit.

5.7 Admission fees are determined by and used strictly to cover the expenses of the event. Such expenses may include but are not limited to: Fuel for food transport, electrical infrastructure, network infrastructure, dinner and tape.
